

2010 WASA

Superintendent Workshop

Leading With Confidence

May 2–4 • Campbell's, Chelan

The WASA Superintendent Workshop provides a powerful forum for superintendents to share and learn from each other. Action-oriented sessions provide methods for implementing proactive decision making to support the needs of Washington school districts and students.

Leading With Confidence

The current push from state and federal policy makers has stretched the role of public school superintendent to the max. Essentially every school superintendent is challenged to produce greater results in student learning with significantly fewer resources. The game has changed to the point where each of our superintendents must explore different strategies to remain effective.

The 2010 WASA Superintendent Workshop is designed to provide new strategies and support for improved system delivery. State leaders from Michigan, who have previously been through this, will share their ideas and what they learned. Meredith Honig, from the University of Washington, will present recent research on central office transformation leadership. Register today to enjoy interaction with colleagues, share ideas, and get caught up on recent legislative decisions.

Plus valuable, interactive conversations

Recent legislation and the current operating budget impacts will be discussed. Participants are encouraged to share their perspectives on these critical issues and the impacts they have in each district. Other topics for discussion include:

- Current research on central office transformation study.
- Trends in superintendent contracts.
- Strategies to effectively plan for retirement, Plans 1, 2 and 3, and beyond.
- Chinese Bridge—international program.
- Keeping up with RIF—round two.
- Race To The Top—update.
